

Social Services

Complaints, Comments and Praise

This leaflet tells you how to:

Tell us if you have had a good service

Or
Complain if you are unhappy with a service

This leaflet is easy to read

This information is also available in Welsh

Making a comment or giving praise

Social Services need your comments and praise to help improve our services.

You might want to tell us about good things we have done. We call this making a compliment.

You might want to tell us about your ideas for making our services better. We call this making a comment.

Your comments are very important to us.

We will listen to what you think

Whether you give praise or make a complaint Social Services will still give you the best help we can.

Making a complaint

You might be unhappy about our services. If you are unhappy about any of our services, we would like you to tell us. We call this making a complaint.

If you would like help to make a complaint, you can ask someone you know to help you, or we can help you find an advocate. An advocate is a trained person who will support you with your complaint. You do not have to pay for using an advocate.

Stage 1

Stage 2

What if I am still unhappy?

We will ask someone who doesn't work for the council to look at your complaint. This person is called an Independent Investigating Officer.

This Investigating Officer will talk to you and other people involved, to find out what's happened.

We will write to let you know what we have found out. This will take about 5 weeks.

What if I am still unhappy after Stage 2?

You can contact the
Public Services Ombudsman for Wales

The Ombudsman is the person to talk to if you think your council has not looked at your complaint in the right way.

The Ombudsman does not take sides and decides things fairly.

You can write to The Ombudsman:

What happens when you make a complaint

Stage 1

If you are unhappy about something, contact the Social Services Complaints Officer

Stage 2

If you are unhappy with the response you got at Stage 1, you can ask to have your complaint looked at again, by someone who doesn't work for the council

OMBUDSMAN

You can contact the Public Services Ombudsman if you are still unhappy with the response you got.
